Québec City Convention Centre

Québec City welcomes the CRISPR 2019 Meeting!

Since its inception in 2008, the annual CRISPR meeting has provided an international forum for scientists interested in all aspects of CRISPR-Cas systems, ranging from fundamental biology to biotechnological development, genome editing, and beyond. The primary goal of this meeting is to present state of the art novel research and global trends in CRISPR biology. CRISPR 2019 will continue the tradition of this unique scientific gathering, and will cover all aspects of CRISPR biology ranging from adaptation to interference, anti-CRISPR mechanisms, microbial tracking, and genome editing.

CRISPR 2019 will be held in Canada for the very first time, from June 17-20, 2019. It will be hosted at the Québec City Convention Centre, which is located in the heart of the city, surrounded by world-class hotels and tourist attractions. This includes the historic district of Old Québec, a designated UNESCO World Heritage Treasure. Québec City is renowned for its joie de vivre, its warm people and countless culinary delights.

We look forward to welcoming you to CRISPR 2019 in Québec City!
